Jordan Asks Aid of Iraq

JERUSALEM (AP)—King Hussein of Jordan said today in a Beirut newspaper he had asked Iraq for military assistance against Israeli "aggression" because his ally Egypt is "wrapped up with the Suez business."

Hussein said he made similar appeals to other Arab nations but he pointed out in the newspaper Al Jerida that Iraq "possesses the necessary force which could be effective in safeguarding Jordan, especially since Egypt is wrapped up with the Suez business."

"We expect Syria's help if Israel attacks with her full forces," he said.

The young king said his nation was in a dangerous situation, but he promised "our army is now at the front lines in order to hit back at the next expected Israeli attack and we will destroy them and give Israel's army a lesson."

Hussein, asked about the recent "unity" negotiations between Jordan and Syria, said, "When I feel that my crown is a stumbling stone for Arab unity I shall then give up my crown, preferring to become a citizen of united Arabia than king of Jordan."

A cease fire ordered by the U. N. truce supervision team was in effect along the border and no new shooting has been reported since the Wednesday morning clashes between the Israeli army and the Arab Legion of Jordan.

The situation remained tense and it was understood the U. N. Security Council would take up the border dispute if there are further disturbances. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold warned both sides Wednesday they must end the border fighting that threatens war.

Nasser Gives Assurance

One message of assurance to Hussein came from Egyptian President Gamal Abdel Nasser. He cabled the king a pledge that "Egypt will stand by her sister Jordan" and expressed condolences from "the Egyptian government and people" for its dead and wounded.

A second message came from Syrian President Shukri El-Kuwatly who telephoned Hussein and said Syria was ready to extend all necessary help to Jordan against "Israeli aggressions."

At the same time, a dispatch from Baghdad said Jordanian Foreign Minister Awni Abdel Hadi had flown there from Amman with a special message from Hussein for King Feisal concerning the Israeli attack.

In Cairo official sources called Israel a protege of Britain and said "now Britain is using Israel in order to accomplish its imperialistic aspirations in the Middle East." The sources said Britain hoped to divert Arab strength from the Suez dispute to the Arab-Israeli troubles.

Suffers Critical Shotgun Wound

Walter Milligan, visiting from Kentucky at the home of his brother-in-law, George Brenner, 512 West Homer, was found last night wounded and in critical condition and was rushed to Harrisburg hospital, Chief of Police Ross Lane said today.

He was to be transferred today to the Herriir hospital.

A shotgun was found near Milligan, Lane said. There were no witnesses, he added, saying it was presumed he had shot himself.

The Daily Register Subscription Rates

Effective October 1, the rate for The Daily Register will be 30 cents per week by carrier boy.

Single copies at news stands and at The Daily Register office will be six cents.

You may avoid the annoyance of weekly payments to carrier boys by paying in advance at the rate of $3.75 for three months; $7.25 for six months or $14.00 per year.

This is a slight savings over the weekly payment plan, but the carrier boy gets a regular 30 cents-a-week credit against what he owes for his papers, so there is no loss to the carrier.

Thronged Jam Uptown for Sidewalk Sales

Thronged started jamming uptown Harrisburg this morning for the Sidewalk Sales event by local merchants and there was every indication that it would get bigger and bigger as the day progressed. Senator Kefauver was to arrive in town this afternoon and many would come to see the Democratic vice presidential nominee.

The merchants had their wares out in front of their businesses and gaily costumed clerks were on hand to take care of customers on the spot. Curbstone cash registers jingled.

Cowboys and gypsies helped those in the crowds choose everything from do-dads to major appliances.

There were automotive supplies and refrigerators. There were clothing, shoes, blankets and musical.

More do-dads, some knickknacks. Even aspirin and mineral oil.

The biggest overalls you ever saw were right there on the square. Yessiree. Two pairs.

There were rugs and purses and toys. Hardware and utensils. More cash registers jingling. Grab bags. Wallpaper and paint. Buckets.

More music.

There were socks and stockings and coats and pants and shirts and jeans and furniture.

And rubber balloons.

Short stepladders were going fast. They could be used to stand on and get a good look at Sen. Kefauver.

There were books on sewing and shoulder pads. Ranges, refrigerators and washing machines. There was everything.

There were more smiling faces than one usually sees on the streets. The merchants were putting over a fine event. Congratulations to the merchants:

United Nations, N. Y. (AP)—Security Council debate on the Suez Canal crisis is likely to develop into a general discussion of Middle East policy by the foreign ministers of Britain, France, the United States and Russia, observers said today.

The council late Wednesday voted to give full airing to opposing Anglo-French and Egyptian items pertaining to the Suez developments. It then adjourned until late next week to permit time, as Russia put it, for "all" the foreign ministers concerned to get here.

British Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd, French Foreign Minister Christian Pineau and Secretary of State John Foster Dulles already have indicated they will participate in the council's debate on the substance of the Suez question. They will be joined by Egyptian Foreign Minister Mahmoud Fawzi.

Soviet Ambassador Arkady A. Sobolev, asked if his emphasis on the word "all" meant that Russian Foreign Minister Dmitri Shepilov also would attend, replied with a broad smile, "why not?" He would not amplify that.

Aged Spinster Keeps Mummified Body Of Roommate in Apartment 18 Months

WASHINGTON (AP)—Zita Louise Baker prayed and cared for the mummified body of her elderly roommate for 18 months trying to raise her from the dead.

Complaints from neighbors ended her long vigil Wednesday.

The 59-year-old spinster and her 71-year-old roommate Lisle Thomas, had been friends for a quarter century. They had lived together with more than a dozen cats in the same apartment since 1947.

Then one cold February night last year Miss Thomas, who had a medical record of a heart ailment, died.

"I came into the room one night," Miss Baker told police. "I leaned over and kissed her on the forehead. She was cold."

She said ever since then she had been "trying to raise her from the dead by spiritual healing."

Neighbors told police they began smelling an unusual odor in the apartment house, but they attributed it to the cats. No one investigated.

Neighbors complain

Finally neighbors demanded that something be done about the odor in the apartment house.

When apartment manager Catherine Doyle informed Miss Baker she had an eviction order, Miss Baker said: "You'll find Lisle under a blanket." Police were called.

The brown mummified body was found fully-clothed under a blanket on a bed.

Deputy Coroner Richard M. Rosengerger said the body apparently became mummified because the apartment was kept hot and dry.

Miss Baker said she kept the windows closed because of Miss Thomas' health.

Matusow Found Guilty on Five Perjury Counts

NEW YORK (AP)—Harvey M. Matusow convicted of five counts of perjury growing from the trial of Communist leaders has until 4 p. m. today to raise $10,000 bail.

Matusow was scheduled to be sentenced Friday. He faces a maximum of 25 years in prison.

A jury of 10 men and 2 women found Matusow guilty after 1 hour and 40 minutes of deliberations Wednesday.

The 29-year-old self-styled inventor of the "stringless yo-yo," had first helped convict 13 second string Communist leaders in 1952 and then reversed his testimony.

The verdict was a legal victory for Roy M. Cohn, former assistant U. S. attorney and aide to Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy (R-Wis.), who was accused by Matusow of seeking false testimony against the Communists.

The government had charged that the turnabout witness had attempted to "destroy" Cohn by lying about him.

During his trial Matusow admitted he had been a pathological liar for 27 of his 29 years. He said he had found it extremely difficult in the last two years to stop lying.

Matusow's trial began here on Sept. 18. The government charged that Matusow used "one big single terrible lie" in an attempt to set the Communists free after serving as the government's star witness against them.

Matusow joined the Communist Party in 1947. In 1950, he turned informer to the FBI. In 1952, he testified against the 13 Red leaders, who were convicted of conspiring against the government.

Three years later, Matusow said his 1952 testimony against the 13 Communists was false. Two of the 13 won new trials on the basis of Matusow's testimony and were again convicted only last week.

Stevenson Charges Eisenhower Rejects His Responsibilities

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—Adlai E. Stevenson worked today to build up a picture of President Eisenhower as a weak president with a limited concept of his duties.

The Democratic presidential nominee plugged away at that theme Wednesday night at a rally at which he was introduced by his former foe, former President Truman.

Stevenson said that in calling for "a strong presidency, I am not talking about the President's health or any personal aspect of the situation in Washington."

Says Not "Attacking" Ike

"I am talking about the limited concept of the presidency that Mr. Eisenhower has announced publicly and followed in practice," he said. "And I am not 'attacking' the President, as the newspaper headlines so often say."

"I am talking, rather, about what has seemed to me his philosophical attitude toward the office and his consistent rejection of the positive responsibilities of leadership—a rejection that began not last fall, but in January, 1953," he said.

Stevenson planned to write speeches this morning, and then motor across the Kaw River to talk at the Wyandotte County court house in Kansas City, Kan. Afterward, his plane was scheduled to leave for St. Louis, Mo., where he speaks tonight.

Cordial Meeting

Stevenson and Mr. Truman met in an atmosphere of cordiality Wednesday night, their first meeting since the Democratic Convention, where Mr. Truman tried to block Stevenson's nomination.

The ex-president used only 50 words to introduce Stevenson. He said Stevenson had the qualifications, experience and ability to fill the office of president.

When Stevenson's speech was completed, Mr. Truman told reporters it was "right down the alley" and "he ought to do that all the time—if he does, he's going to win."

Stevenson told the crowd of 2,500 in Municipal Auditorium it was no secret that he and Mr. Truman have sometimes disagreed. But he praised Mr. Truman as a strong president who refused to "pass the buck."

J. F. Morris, 87, Dies at New Burnside

James F. Morris, 87, of New Burnside, died at the home of his son, Clemmie Morris, in New Burnside Wednesday morning.

The body was taken from the Thornton funeral home in Stonefort to the son's home to lie in state.

Funeral services will be Friday at 1:30 p. m. at New Burnside Baptist church. Burial will be in the Drake cemetery between Stonefort and Creal Springs.

Western Diplomats Show Concern at Mystery Trip

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP)—President Tito accompanied Soviet Communist Party leader Nikita Khrushchev on a sudden and hasty trip to Russia today.

The official Yugoslav announcement of their departure said they "will spend several days resting at the Black Sea."

The trip had not been announced previously—any more than was Khrushchev's trip to Yugoslavia last week, when he ostensibly came here on a private vacation visit. He and Tito conferred at the Adriatic resort city of Brioni during that visit.

The Tito-Khrushchev journey followed unofficial reports of Soviet dissatisfaction with some phases of Yugoslav Communist Party activity and a certain amount of Yugoslav criticism of the Russians.

This was Tito's second journey to the Soviet Union "in several months. The first was a loudly heralded state visit to Moscow which was culminated with the signing of a declaration of "normalization" of Soviet-Yugoslav relations.

The declaration was the climax of a gradual resumption of relations after Tito's sharp break with—and ouster from—the Cominform in 1948.

Diplomatic reports received in Vienna Wednesday said one of the subjects of Tito's seaside talks with Khrushchev had been the status of Yugoslav Communists dropped from the party after the 1948 break for being too pro-Moscow in their attitudes.

Khrushchev wants them "rehabilitated" or restored to dignity, these reports said.

In London, Western diplomats greeted the announcement of Tito's Soviet trip with considerable concern.

While British officials refused to comment, it was generally conceded that the trip has far more significance than a mere Black Sea vacation.

Diplomats mentioned the possibility of negotiations on a new Soviet military and economic aid program for Yugoslavia, whose Western grants are being cut back.

Says He Will Not Barnstorm Or Whistlestop

President's Plans Follow Request by GOP Associates

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower said today he has expanded his election campaign activities at the earnest request of Republican associates. But he said he still will not barnstorm or whistlestop.

Mr. Eisenhower told his news conference that when he originally spoke of making five or six major campaign speeches his plans for the campaign were not complete.

Since he blocked out his campaign plans in the early summer he said a lot of pressure has been brought to bear on him to expand his speaking program and he probably will make two or three additional major addresses.

Other highlights of the President's news conference:

1. He shrugged off criticism by Adlai Stevenson, the Democratic presidential nominee, that he is guilty of "consistent rejection of the positive responsibilities of leadership." Mr. Eisenhower said the United States is filled with people who have been associated with him and he preferred to call on them for an answer to Stevenson rather than discussing his own qualifications.

Defends Milton Eisenhower

2. He fired back at Stevenson on the Democrat's criticism of his brother, Dr. Milton S. Eisenhower, for his relations with the now deposed Peron government in Argentina. Mr. Eisenhower said that the 130-million-dollar loan by this government to Peron was executed by the Democrats before he took office in 1953. He also said his brother at no time had attempted to fix any U. S. policy regarding Latin America.

3. He said he believes there is some hope in the Suez canal crisis. He said that if the 18 nations making up the tentative users association get together on a proper set of rules, he believes Egypt will see that her best interests lay in the same direction.

4. He said, in reply to a question, he has never been a member of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People. This point was raised because Vice President Richard M. Nixon said Wednesday that he was an honorary member of the NAACP.

5. Mr. Eisenhower has renewed his invitation to Indian Prime Minister Nehru to visit this country. Nehru was scheduled originally to

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

Him to do the best for us.

For All the World to See

Editorial — By BRUCE BLOSSAT

One of the most powerful facts emerging from the Suez crisis so far is the unmistakable reality of America's thorough dedication to the maintenance of peace.

Because in recent years we have insisted on keeping an adequate posture of defense against communist, we in this country have become accustomed to being maligned by some people in Europe and Asia as "war-like and sabrerattling."

This, of course, represented a gross misreading of our purposes and our very nature. Nothing so convincingly demonstrates this as our conduct in the explosive Suez affair.

President Eisenhower again and again has made statements casting our weight on the side of a peaceful solution and against the use of force. We have even gone to the point of saying we would not support our traditional allies, Britain and France, if they should undertake force to achieve their ends.

Secretary of State Dulles was rushed to London originally to cool off the British and French in their first reaction to Egyptian President Nasser's seizure of the Suez Canal.

Feeling that right lay on our allies' side, we proposed the plan for international control of the waterway which was offered Nasser at Cairo. But we did not in fact expect him to agree to it, and so did not flare in anger when he said "No."

Instead, recognizing with our allies that Nasser alone cannot manage the canal efficiently, we helped devise the so-called "users' association" under which nations employing the canal would try to operate their own vessels through Suez. This would free them of dependence on inadequate Egyptian pilots and other technical personnel.

Yet we made clear, as we had all along, that if Nasser blocked this plan, as he indicates now he will do, the United States would not favor forcing the situation at risk of war.

Once more, looking steadily for peaceful paths to follow, we sought an alternative. We told our allies that we would lend them up to 500 million dollars as part of a detailed economic plan to aid them in re-routing their ships around the Suez Canal should traffic there be halted or hopelessly snarled.

Before the Suez issue is even halfway resolved, many plans may be conceived and die. But the significant thing about America's role in the dilemma is that no matter what the plan, we are in every case urging arrangements which are intended to promote peace and avoid violence.

Unless their minds are utterly closed against us, those in Europe and Asia who repeatedly have branded us war-like ought in these recent weeks to have had their eyes opened wide.

The Eyes Have It

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

DREW PEARSON Says:
Race Row in Kentucky Raises Political Question Marks;
Tax Agents Are Now Wearing Smiles.

WASHINGTON. — Political pundits are trying to gauge what effect the interracial school row in Kentucky will have on the hot race for the Senate, in which Eisenhower forces are trying to bump off the No. 2 Democratic leader of the Senate, Earle Clements, and ex-Gov. Lawrence Weatherly, who is running for the seat of the late Alben Barkley.

Neither Clements nor Weatherly has the bona fide support of their fellow Democrat, Gov. Harvey Chandler. Chandler is officially supporting Clements, after doing his best to defeat him in the Democratic primary; but he is bitter against ex-Governor Weatherly.

At first it was suspected that the school row in Sturgis, Ky., might have been stirred up by Chandler forces in order to embarrass Clements, since it occured in Clements' home county, and since the opposition to Negroes' attending Sturgis schools was inspired by Chandler's close friend, W. W. Waller, a farm implement dealer.

Furthermore, the school principal, Carlos Oakley, who stood up for the right of Negro children to attend school, was a close friend of Senator Clements. Thus the situation could have lost votes for Clements, who has always supported the Supreme Court decision and did not sign the congressional southern manifesto.

However, Chandler's calling out the Kentucky National Guard has now put him squarely on the side of the Negro. So he's unpopular with some whites, a hero with others. General consensus of the politicians is that the school controversy hasn't changed many Kentucky votes.

TAX AGENTS' MORALE
The agents who collect our income taxes are more efficient these days, thanks to the new commissioner, Russell C. Harrington.

Actually few people realized how low the spirits of Internal Revenue employees sank under their former boss, T. Coleman Andrews. Andrews hated the income tax, consequently made his tax collectors feel he hated them too.

While nobody likes to pay taxes, and for that reason tax agents aren't particularly loved, nevertheless the entire structure of government collapses without them. Furthermore, most tax agents are hard-working, dedicated, underpaid men.

Since taking office last December, Harrington has traveled far and wide to meet Internal Revenue employees. As a result he's accomplished miracles in restoring the dignity of his once dispirited workers.

Ordinary citizens may also be feeling the benefit of Harrington's reforms, for the new commissioner has been fighting against the insidious system of quotas admitted so much by his predecessor.

Under Andrews, regional directors were made to understand they'd have to settle a minimum number of disputed cases in order to earn good job ratings.

Hence, time-consuming corporation cases were ignored by inspectors, who instead concentrated on winning numerous small claims from private individuals.

Fortunately, the quota system was blasted by Harrington in a little-publicized speech last spring in Alabama. This was followed by a letter to regional offices in which Harrington insisted that each case be handled on its merits.

Complaints are still heard, however, particularly about overzealous tax collectors who disallow claims so small that the taxpayer can't afford a legal fight.

4 Carterville Youths Admit Pillaging Binge

MARION, Ill. — Authorities say four Carterville youths have admitted a three-county window-breaking and pillaging binge in which damage may go "over $5,000."

Williamson County Sheriff Carl Miller, who made the damage estimate, said the boys will face charges in Williamson, Jackson and Perry counties. He identified the boys as: Theodore Anderson, 19, James Hall, 17, Robert Spinks,
17, and Sam Waldron, 15.

Asst. State's Atty. Robert Butler said charges of malicious mischief would be filed today in Williamson county. "Hold" orders have been placed by authorities for the boys in the other two counties. Another youth is being sought in the case, authorities said.

The youths used rocks, slingshot-propelled marbles, bricks and apples in their assaults against windows. Sometimes they threw rocks and shot marbles as they drove along in a car.

Butler said the youths also admitted ransacking a rural school in Perry county, knocking down a door with a hatchet. He said the school had to be dismissed Monday to clean up the debris.

Butler said the vandalism occurred over a period of three weeks.

He said the youths hit schools in the Carterville area and the Carterville filtration plant, a drive-in stand at Carbondale, private homes in Murphysboro, a bank and filling station at Vergennes, car windows at Pinckneyville, windows in the Ordill ordinance plant area and disabled two tractors at Ordill.

Thinking It Over

By Robert L. Dieffenbacher, D.D.
(Written for NEA Service)

The dictionary is not the kind of a book which people read from cover to cover. It is a good reference book to explain what words mean. It gives several definitions of many words according to their use and their relationship to other words in a sentence.

The purpose of the dictionary is to make it possible for people to understand other people. If we do not understand each other, we make mistakes, become antagonistic and are confused, to say the least.

No one wants to misunderstand.
No one desires confusion for himself or for others. However, many of us do not check with others to determine whether our explanations have been clear.

For instance, a blue person may be discouraged or he may have a physical ailment. If he is true blue, he is very loyal, but if he is a blue-blood, he is something else. In conversation a single word unheard or misunderstood could give an erroneous description of the person.

The Bible is about as simple as any writing we can find. Yet it sometimes confuses people. Much of the misunderstanding comes from varying translations, word definitions and different interpretations.

Let us express ourselves clearly and let us learn the real meanings of words so that we shall not make mistakes, allow misunderstandings to develop or to become confused.

Booten-Gaskins Marriage Solemnized Sept. 8 at First Presbyterian Church

Mr. and Mrs. John Thad Gaskins III

An altar draped in white and flanked by baskets of white gladioli and candelabra with 42 burning tapers was the scene for the fall wedding of Miss Bonita Booten and John Thad Gaskins III, Rev. William Burroughs performed the double ring ceremony Saturday, Sept. 8, at seven o'clock in the evening at the First Presbyterian church. Light filtered through stained glass windows on both sides of the altar.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Booten, of 218 South Granger, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. John T. Gaskins Jr. of this city.

Mrs. Robert Norman, organist, played thirty minutes preceding the ceremony. Her medley of wedding music included "Through the Years" and "At Dawning." She accompanied Miss Shirley Karnes as she sang "The Wedding Prayer" before the ceremony and "The Lord's Prayer" as a benediction as the bride and groom knelt at the altar.

The bride, escorted to the altar and given in marriage by her father, was radiant in a gown of antique taffeta and chantilly lace which she designed. The tight-fitted bodice of lace was fashioned with a sabrina neckline and long sleeves which came to a point over the hands. The bodice closed in back with tiny self buttons. Pleats along the hipline of the full gathered skirt descended to a point in the back and three bows were placed at intervals on the back of the skirt which extended into a train. Her veil of illusion which she also designed was fingertip in length with points in front and back. It was secured to a bonnet of matching antique taffeta.

The bride carried a white Bible adorned with white Fuji mums and streamers. She also carried a matching chantilly lace handkerchief. Her only jewelry was a tiny white gold cross at her neck.

Miss Jo Ann Kennedy, close friend of the bride, was maid of honor wearing a waltz length gown of ice blue designed with a sabrina neckline, elbow length sleeves and a full gathered skirt. She wore a matching headpiece and carried a colonial bouquet of white chrysanthemums with ice blue ribbons.

Little Susan Ray Evans, niece of the bride, was flower girl. She was dressed in a full length frock of taffeta with an overskirt of blue net and a ribbon sash. Her headband was of baby pom poms. She carried rose petals in a white basket with blue streamers.

Ring bearer was little Davy Baker.

Robert T. Conover, Harrisburg, life long friend of the bridegroom, was best man, and ushers were Harry Gene Moore and Jerry Hensley, cousin of the groom.

Mrs. Booten chose for her daughter's wedding a dress of wedgewood blue with matching velvet hat and black accessories. Her flowers were white chrysanthemums.

The bridegroom's mother was also dressed in wedgewood blue with a corsage of pink carnations.

Mrs. David Miley registered the guests in the vestibule of the church and following the ceremony the bride couple and their parents greeted the guests in the rear of the church.

The bride attended Southeast Missouri State College for 2 years majoring in accounting and was formerly employed as accountant for the Saline County Housing Authority. She will now be employed in the Bursar's office at the University of Illinois in the accounting division.

The bridegroom has been employed for the summer as junior power engineer for the Texas Company in Lawrenceville and is entering his senior year at the University of Illinois in the College of Mechanical Engineering.

After a wedding trip the couple is at home in their new apartment at 508 West Hill in Champaign, Ill.

Swift Remains Lone Holdout

CHICAGO (AP)—Strikebound Swift & Co. today remained the lone holdout of the big five meatpackers following Wednesday's agreement between three of the packing firms and two unions.

Union negotiators continued to meet with Swift officials in an attempt to end the eight-day walk-out which has idled 25,000 workers.

A major issue holding up agreement in the Swift dispute is the question of establishing a union shop.

Armour & Co. set the pattern for other major packers Tuesday when the company agreed to wage increases totaling 22 1-2 cents per hour in a three-year contract. The settlement included an escalator clause which pegs future raises to the cost-of-living index.

Cudahy Packing Co. with 15,000 union employees, Morrell & Co. with 12,000 and Hygrade Food Products with 10,000 followed Armour's example Wednesday in reaching contract settlements with the unions.

The contracts negotiated by the Amalgamated Meat Cutters and Butcher Workmen and the United Packinghouse Workers boosted the present basic wage in the meat industry of $2.14.

Architect, 87, Reveals Details of Proposed Mile-High Chicago Skyscraper

SPRING GREEN, Wis. (UP) — Architect Frank Lloyd Wright today disclosed details of his proposed mile-high skyscraper, which would "rise like a rapier in the sky" above Chicago's lakefront.

"It would be the eighth wonder of the world," he said. "But it would be as simple as ABC."

The controversial, 87-year-old architect was interviewed at Taliesin, his rambling, weatherbeaten home on a wooded hill in the Wisconsin countryside.

Wright said his skyscraper would be built of stainless steel and glass. Elevators would have their own individual motors powered by nuclear energy. They would rise on cogged tracks at a mile a minute.

The building would be a cantilever structure with a "taproot" foundation extending 1,000 feet beneath the surface. The floors would extend outward from a central steel and concrete core, like limbs from a tree trunk.

Thus, Wright said, the building would be extremely light in weight and low in cost, for there would be no ponderous, rectangular steel skeleton.

All this might sound visionary to the layman, and some people think Wright is indulging in an intellectual prank and pulling the public's leg.

But it seems real and logical when the white-haired Wright leans over a drafting table and points out the details with a slender, steady forefinger.

Wright launched his mile-high project after a group of Chicagoans came to him with a proposal to build a skyscraper a half-mile high. "Why a half mile?" he asked. "Why not a mile?"

He said the challenging concept of a skyscraper built like a Christmas tree on the cantilever principle is "nothing new."

"It's a shot I've had in my locker for 35 years," said the father of the modern ranch house.

One Ferry Quits, Another Begins

John W. Allen
Southern Illinois University

A few weeks ago a bridge over the Ohio at Shawneetown was opened to traffic and the old ferry, no longer necessary, ceased to operate. This marked the passing of another of the historic ferries of the midwest, one among those having the longest records of continuous operation, for Shawneetown has been an important river crossing for 150 years.

Numerous other ferries operated along the Illinois section of the Ohio, and some of them became widely known. Apparently few or none of them really were planned. They simply began where groups of emigrants from the earlier settled areas, principally the Carolinas, Tennessee and Kentucky, came to the river on their way to settle in southern Illinois.

Among the more important of these older ferries were the ones at Shawneetown and Cave-in-Rock and those at Elizabethtown, Golconda and Metropolis. Some of these began about the same time as the one at Shawneetown and have been in almost continuous operation. These ferries were the principal gateways by which the early settlers entered the Illinois country. They also served travelers taking a short cut to points farther west.

Ford's Ferry
Legends grew up about several of these river crossings. Perhaps no one of them collected a greater body of this lore than did the one a short way upstream from Cave-in-Rock. Known as Ford's Ferry, this one was operated by a man named Thomas Ford. In addition to operating the ferry, Ford kept a tavern in Kentucky, a few miles south from his ferry. He laid out and improved a roadway from his tavern in Kentucky to another tavern kept by William Potts about ten miles north. This roadway became widely known as Ford's Ferry Road. It was along this roadway that many travelers were robbed, some simply disappeared and not a few were murdered. To those acquainted with the very early history of the region, the mention of Ford's Ferry Road suggests many a weird story.

The ferry at Elizabethtown began when a band of settlers from the Carolinas came to the Ohio at that point and found no means of crossing the stream. Under the supervision of a man named Barker they built their own boat and crossed into Illinois. Barker continued to operate the ferry for some years as is shown by the records of Randolph county when that county included all of southern Illinois. It later passed into the possession of James McFarlan who, in 1812, established McFarlan's Tavern, still operating as the Rose Hotel in Elizabethtown.

Golconda Ferry
Another noted Ohio river ferry, and one of the very earliest ones, was begun at the site of present day Golconda as early as 1797. After more than a century of service, it ceased to operate. Now a number of citizens in Golconda believe that enough traffic would come to justify the operation of a ferry. This talk naturally revives interest in the story of the first ferry located there.

This first ferry was established by Major James Lusk, whose title was derived from his participation in the military campaign that culminated in the Battle of the Cowpens during the Revolutionary War. Lusk first settled on the Kentucky side of the river and began to offer ferry services to those going to Illinois. His first license to operate a ferry was issued in 1797. In 1798, despite lack of approval from "William Henry Harrison, Esq., Governor and Commander in Chief of the Indian Territory," Lusk moved across the Ohio and built a house, mostly of discarded flatboat timbers, on the crumbling Illinois bank of the river. After this removal to Illinois, Lusk obtained license to operate his ferry from the authorities at Kaskaskia.

Town Had Several Names
Lusk's Ferry became widely known and was much used. Lusk, like Ford at Cave-in-Rock, laid out and improved roadways leading to his ferry. It was while improving such a roadway to Greene's Ferry on the Mississippi that Lusk contracted the illness that killed him in 1803. His widow, Sarah, continued to operate the ferry after Lusk's death and was granted a license to do so by Governor Harrison on May 7, 1804, probably the first such license issued to a woman in Illinois. Mrs. Lusk, however, did not continue long to operate the ferry, marrying Thomas Ferguson on April 2, 1805. After that the license to operate was issued to Ferguson.

Shortly after Lusk moved to Illinois, others came to settle there and a straggling village began. In 1816 Ferguson laid out a town and called it Sarahville for his wife. The postoffice, however, retained the name of Lusk Ferry until 1825 when it was changed to Golconda. According to postal records, Sarah Lusk or Ferguson was never postmaster. In the meantime the town had several names. First locally called Fiddler's Green, it became Lusk's Ferry, Sarahville, and for at least one day it was Corinth before the present name of Golconda was chosen.

During the more than a century in which it operated, many settlers entered Illinois here. Much lore grew up about this ferry. It was here that many thousands of the Cherokee Indians crossed the Ohio during the winter of 1838-39 on their way along the "Trail of Tears" from their homes in the Great Smokies to the land assigned them in Indian Territory.

The reestablishment of the old ferry at Golconda would surely afford an interesting link with the past.

Dog Biscuit Fails Postmen

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — The Memphis Post Office reported complete failure in a new test to ward off biting dogs by having postmen carry dog biscuits on their rounds. An unused portion of a biscuit supply was returned to Washington with a note that biting dogs snap that much harder as they leap for the canine goodies.

Once More.

If you have a telephone . . .

You will receive a call announcing that "You have been selected" (along with everyone else in the phone book) to take advantage of some kind of special deal or plan.

So you are photographed . . .

and you bump into some guy you never saw before. He flashes his teeth (if he has any), you flash yours, and you've had it.

But that's just the start . . .

You find that the "beyootiful enlargements" are just bait to get something bigger. So you order some additional pictures at two or three times what you could get them for from your home town photographer. After a long wait, they finally arrive. They may be good or they may be bad . . . but either way, this stranger has your money and now he's a long way away, running his "you have been selected" game in some other city. There's no chance to make him accountable for his work, or all those promises not kept.

Third Gas Pump for New Super Auto Fuel A Problem When You Say 'Fill 'er Up'

By DOUGLAS LARSEN
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK — (NEA) — The average American motorist is soon going to have to become some kind of an automotive engineer to select the proper gasoline for his car.

However, if the whole gasoline industry fails to follow the lead recently set in selling more than two grades of gas the average motorist will end up financing new super fuels for the drivers of the most expensive, high-powered cars.

U. S. car buyers have brought this dilemma on themselves by demanding a steady increase of horsepower in car engines.

Esso Standard Oil Co. has broken the traditional two - grade marketing system by introducing a third, supergrade, high-octane fuel. Shell Oil Co. is following Esso, and so are smaller firms. The Sun Oil Co. is experimenting with selling gas from five-grade custom-blending pumps.

The problem to the motorist, however, is determining whether his car can make efficient use of the more expensive super fuels.

A spokesman for Esso estimates that only about five per cent of the cars on the road today, and one-fifth of the models being built, can benefit from using the new fuel.

New cars in the Cadillac, Packard, Lincoln and Buick class are the ones which get more mileage and better performance generally from the new gasolines in the 100-octane range.

Experience so far shows that about 15 per cent of Esso customers are buying the super fuel. So some of them are apparently spending needless money to put this super grade of gas in their cars.

In preparing for the introduction of the new fuel, Esso station attendants were instructed to make customers aware of this situation. But determining whether a car can use a 100-octane gas efficiently is a complex business.

Even among the most expensive makes, one engine off the line might work efficiently with ordinary, premium 97-octane gas, while the next one will knock without 100-octane gas.

It has also been determined that an engine might require a switch to a higher octane fuel during the first 3,000 to 9,000 miles of driving.

Altitude is another problem. In Denver, Colo., with an altitude of 5,000 feet, for example, a car which needs 100-octane gas at sea level will operate just as efficiently on 95-octane gas, studies reveal.

If a car does not require gas in the 100-octane category the rewards of using it are great. This is why Esso and the other firms have moved so quickly to supply this growing need. The extra mileage it gives, it has been found, more than pays for the extra cost of the gas.

If the rest of the gasoline industry decides to stick to the two-grade system, but raises the general octane level of gas for the newer cars, then all motorists will share the cost. Increasing the general octane rate is an extremely costly proposition.

On the other hand, switching to a multiple grade sales plan involves many problems, too. But millions of motorists will not be paying for a high octane rating which their cars don't need.

An Esso spokesman says that it would cost the petroleum industry three billion dollars to maintain a two-grade system for the demands of cars by 1961. But by adopting a three-grade plan only an investment in new facilities of $1.6 million will be needed.

All the oil companies are spending millions in a race to find new, cheaper methods of producing higher-octane gasoline and developing additives which will increase octane ratings.

This is to keep pace with the auto industry's relentless drive to build higher horsepower engines requiring the higher-octane fuels.

Rising Steel Prices Important Factor in New Inflation

By PETER EDSON

WASHINGTON — (NEA) — Political charges are now in the making that a new round of inflation is again overtaking the country, after a three-year period of relative price stability.

The recent steel strike settlement marked the start of this new spiral. Economists do not believe steel industry wage hikes and the increases in steel prices which followed are the sole cause of the new inflation. But they are an important factor. And they are providing the excuse for price rises in many industries which use steel in their products.

The three-year steel wage agreement signed July 27 gave the steel workers an increase of 20 cents an hour the first year, 13 cents an hour more in the second year and another 13 cents in the third year. It raises the average hourly steel wage from $2.66 an hour last year to $3.12 in 1958-59.

Shortly after the contract went into effect, the steel companies raised their prices by $8.50 a ton. This boosted the composite steel price average from $130 to $138.50 a ton according to "Iron Age," authoritative industry trade paper. Some steel company officials say this figure is too low, and that the raise is really from $138.50 to $147 a ton average.

THE IMPORTANT QUESTION, however, is how much of this price increase can be directly attributed to the wage increase.

Neither the Iron and Steel Institute nor any of the individual steel companies have released any figures to justify the $8.50 per ton increase. The demand for steel is so great that users are accepting the price rise without protest. Public Affairs Institute has been digging into this subject, however. One of the PAI economists, Stephen Rauschenbush, has come up with figures that the industry's new wage contract will increase the labor item in steel-making costs by only $2 a ton for this year, $2.50 a ton next year and $3.10 a ton for the last contract year.

If the industry's announced price increase of $8.50 a ton is not advanced still further in the next three years, it means that the new wage increase can be charged with only 23 per cent of the price increase the first year, 29 per cent the second year and 36 per cent the third year.

RAUSCHENBUSH ESTIMATES that if steel production runs from 116 to 120 million tons in the next three years, the industry will receive increased gross revenues of over three billion dollars. Of this, about 30 per cent can be charged off to meet wage increases. The other 70 per cent will have to be assigned to other causes, or to increased profits.

No figures are available on the increased prices of materials, transportation and other cost items going into steel production and marketing. But it is in this area, between the $2 to $3 a ton steel labor cost increase and the $8.50 a ton increase in steel selling prices, that the inflationary threat lies.

WITHIN A MONTH after the new steel wage contract was signed, other industries which are big steel users announced price increases on their products.

The new 1957 model automobiles will be from $50 to $200 higher. Two big truck companies have announced increases. One has also raised prices on its farm implement lines.

One of the largest machine tool makers has raised prices five to 15 per cent. Other machinery makers are following suit.

Five makers of radios, TVs, washing machines and other household appliances are raising prices two to 10 per cent. Four typewriter companies have raised prices. A carpet company, a tire maker and two breweries are up, too.

Higher price tags on many items, appearing before Election Day, will give a political fillip to the wholesale and consumers' price indexes, already at record peaks.

Bantam Hen Ends 13 Years of Odd Life

LEXINGTON, Ky. — Chippie, a bright-eyed bantam hen owned by Mrs. Raymond Parker, died recently at the ripe old age of 13.

Her early life got off to such a confusing start it's doubtful if Chippie ever was aware that she was a chicken. She was hatched from an egg Mrs. Parker's grandson took from the family refrigerator and placed under a pet pigeon.

After she was hatched, she was placed in a cage with several canaries. She shared their bird food until her appetite became so great the canaries were dispossessed for their own welfare and Chippie took over the entire cage.

She stayed in the cage for the rest of her 13 years, being allowed outside to forage only in summer. Mrs. Parker attributes at least a part of the bantam's longevity to the fact that she spent most of her life in the warm, sunny kitchen window.

UAW to Demand 4- Day Week in 1958

MOLINE, Ill. — A four-day work week will be demanded by United Auto Workers in 1958, an official announced.

Fred Johnston, regional UAW director for Chicago, said "the four-day work-week will be a major collective bargaining issue in the union plans for 1958."

Johnston admitted to a group of some 300 union members and their wives that Vice President Richard Nixon had already mentioned the four-day week, but labeled Nixon's entry in the labor field, "political camouflage."

Johnston was a last minute substitution for Roy Reuther, National CIO Political Action Committee director. Reuther is also the brother of Walter Reuther, head of CIO-AFL UAW.

Court Announces Procedures for Indigent Convicts to Obtain Transcripts

SPRINGFIELD — The Illinois Supreme Court today announced new procedures to permit indigent convicts sentenced prior to April 23, 1956, to obtain free transcripts of their trials for post-conviction appeals.

The appeals must be made by March 1, 1957.

The high court announced the procedures as a revision of a new rule adopted last June which provided that convicted persons may obtain transcripts at state expense if they can show they cannot pay normal costs.

The Supreme Court also sent back to Cook County Criminal Court the cases of Judson Griffin and James Crenshaw, whose appeals to the U. S. Supreme Court resulted in the institution of the new rule permitting such free transcripts. The Criminal Court was directed to enter an order providing transcripts of the Griffin and Crenshaw records, so their cases may be appealed again to the Supreme Court.

Griffin and Crenshaw were convicted of armed robbery in 1953, and petitioned the courts to provide transcripts of their trials for appeal purposes without costs. The petitions were denied.

The two then appealed to the U. S. Supreme Court on grounds the denials violated the due process and equal protection clauses of the Illinois and U. S. constitutions. The U. S. Supreme Court agreed and vacated the decision of the Illinois Supreme Court.

The Illinois Supreme Court then adopted its rule 65-1, authorizing state payment of the cost of such transcripts. The amendment of the rule announced today extends the same privilege to prisoners convicted before April 23, 1956.

Such prisoners must show they were financially unable to pay for the transcripts, and indicate what errors they believe were made in their trials. They must also indicate they desire to apply for a writ of error to review the conviction.

Britain Ends Exile Of African Chieftain

LONDON — Britain today ended the exile of Seretse Khama, the African chieftain who was ousted from his throne and his homeland because he married a white woman.

In return the 35-year-old Oxford-educated chief of the Bamangwato tribe renounced all claim to his title so he could remain with the woman he loves.

Khama will return to the Bechuanaland protectorate bordering the Union of South Africa as a private citizen, the Commonwealth relations office announced.

LESLIE TURNER NATIONAL DOG WEEK:

Pet Owners Asked to Help in Curbing Number of Homeless Animals by Actions of Control

Educational Leaflet Distributed Free by Local Humane Group

The week of Sept. 24 has been designated as National Dog Week and the Harrisburg Humane society, in connection with its animal welfare program, is making available to pet owners in this area a new educational leaflet entitled "Puppies and Kittens — 10,000 an Hour."

The title comes from the fact that dogs and cats are born at that rate in the United States. Mrs. Tim Turner, president of the society, said that the purpose of the folder is to inform pet owners about the cause of the surplus animal problem. She said that 25 million cats and 15 million dogs are homeless, that there are no homes for the existing surplus, or any hope of homes for additional animals born at the rate of 65 a minute.

Solution to Problem
Mrs. Turner explained that the heart of the problem is that "animal owners do not yet realize that when they permit their female dogs and cats to breed, they directly cause the staggering surplus of animals."

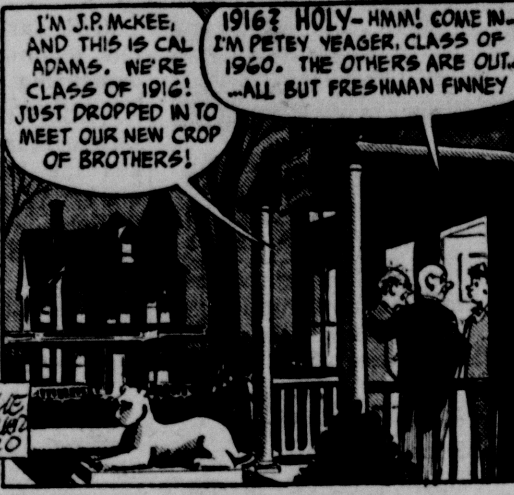

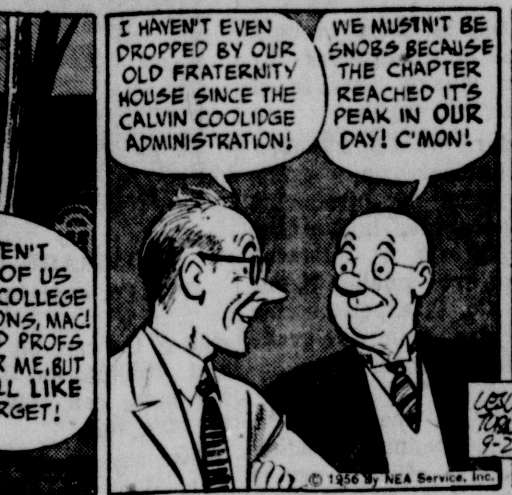

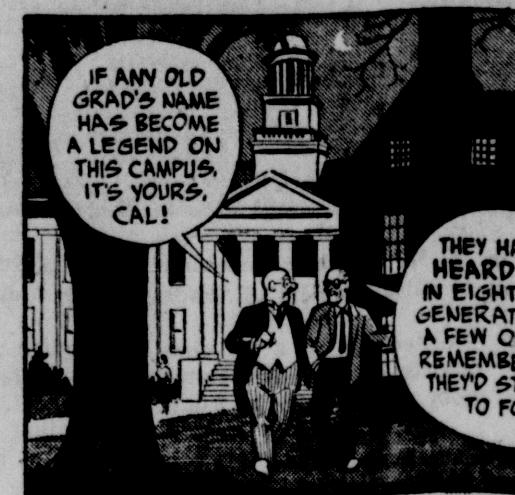

The local society requires that female animals adopted from the shelter either be controlled or spayed to prevent additions to the surplus animal problem. The president said that those people who do not control their females contribute to the suffering of homeless animals.

Humane societies consider either spaying, an operation performed by qualified veterinarians, or proper control of females the solution to the nationwide cruelty caused by breeding more animals than there are homes to accommodate.

The National Humane Society of Washington, D. C., which prepared the leaflet distributed without charge by the Harrisburg Humane society, is campaigning to induce pet owners to recognize either spaying or control of females as an essential part of conscientious animal ownership.

Mrs. Turner invited pet owners, as well as those who are interested in the welfare of animals but do not own any, to contact the Harrisburg Humane society for a free copy of "Puppies and Kittens—10,000 an Hour." The society's shelter is located on the Dorrisville Heights road. The telephone number is 1193.

Governor Stratton Adds More Land to Farm Near Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Ill. (Special)—Gov. William G. Stratton has added more land to his farm a short distance northwest of Springfield to make a total of 534 acres. It originally consisted of less than 300, expanded to 360 in 1954 and is disclosed now as totaling 534 acres. It is located off State Route 29, eight miles northwest of Springfield, in Sangamon county.

The farm has been improved from its earlier ruggedness and rundown condition. Modern agricultural and conservation practices have converted it into what Stratton calls an improved livestock operation. Recent purchase of an additional 60 acres of somewhat cleared land has provided him with an approximate 2 mile shoreline on the winding Sangamon river between New Salem and Springfield.

The farm is in an area of rustic scenery and rugged terrain with hills and gullies and has a fair amount of acreage of timber which includes oak and other hardwood trees. On the farm are more than 80 head of Aberdeen Angus cattle of what is termed good commercial quality. They include one bull, 27 cows, 42 yearling heifers and calves and 13 steers.

When the Governor bought the farm with Robert Patton, Springfield, an attorney and chairman of the State Youth Commission, helping him, the land didn't even have electricity or a telephone and a good deal of it had grown up in brush. He bought it, he said, as an investment "and also as a place where my family could go to relax, ride horses and have picnics."

Just how much money Stratton has put into the farm is anyone's guess, but his early purchases were at a cost of $62 an acre whereas good farms in Sangamon county and central Illinois sell for $500 to $600 an acre. Most of Stratton's land is timber, bottomland and swamp, and costs about $35,000. Cost of a foundation herd and improvements has run the investment to about $60,000.

The original tract bought by Stratton is said to have been untitled for 30 years. A historic twist to the farm is the story Stratton tells about a trail he found on it. He said he has been told the trail was used by Abraham Lincoln on his trudges from New Salem to Springfield where he at one time served as a member of the State General Assembly.

Newsman who have been invited to river shore dinner of wieners or small steaks agree the farm is not a luscious piece of land. Stratton showed some of the improvements but said they represented private enterprise, that no state equipment was used to clear land "and there won't be." He has added a 30-foot aluminum cruiser to ply the Sangamon for short distances.

It's incorrect to refer to Illinois' new state auditor, Dr. Lloyd Morey, Urbana, as "former acting president of the University of Illinois" and as "acting state auditor." He was actually president of the University for nearly 19 months and was never acting state auditor. He was appointed auditor July 18, and will serve until his successor takes office next January.

Dr. Morey, was acting president of the University only five months while former President Stoddard was on leave, from Sept. 1, 1953, to Jan. 31, 1954. He was appointed President in a meeting of the University Board of Trustees in January, 1954, in Springfield, and officially became president February 1, 1954, and served until August 31, 1955.

State Agriculture Director Stillman J. Stanard, Carbondale, in a farm progress report to Governor Stratton, says: Illinois will lead all the states in corn production, 50 million bushels more than Iowa; the soybean crop will be 2 1/2 times more than all other states; farm prices are at their highest in 18 months; and the state tested 32,000 cattle during August for tuberculosis.

Second SIU Staff Member Receives SBA Appointment

CARBONDALE, Ill. — R. Ralph Bedwell, director of the Small Business Institute at Southern Illinois University, has accepted an appointment as regional field advisor for the Small Business Administration in Washington. He is the second SIU staff member to receive an appointment to the national agency. Dr. William Tudor, director of Area Services, earlier was named to the national board of field advisors.

C. I. Moyer, regional director of the SBA for the midwestern area, said Bedwell and other regional board members must "keep the Administration abreast of conditions which may be adversely affecting small firms throughout the nation."

An Evansville, Ind., native, Bedwell was formerly education director for the Illinois Chamber of Commerce. He has served as assistant dean of the College of Commerce at DePaul University.

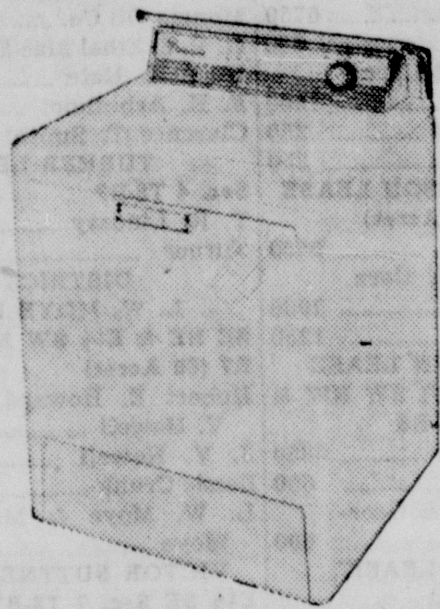

U. S. Generals

There have been but eight generals of the U. S. Army: Ulysses S. Grant, William T. Sherman, Philip H. Sheridan, George C. Marshall, Douglas MacArthur, Henry H. Arnold, Dwight Eisenhower, and Omar N. Bradley.

Eisenhower to Expand Campaign Activities

visit Mr. Eisenhower in June, but the President's intestinal surgery forced a postponement. Mr. Eisenhower said he believes Nehru will visit this country some time this year, but not very soon.

6. He stood behind Nixon on the vice president's forecast of an eventual four-day work week. He said this could not be accomplished by fiat but that his administration will continue efforts to establish an economic climate in which the worker receives the maximum reward for his efforts.

Dwelling for the moment on Nixon's forecast, Mr. Eisenhower said if the day can come when the United States can have a four-day work week he thinks it would be fine. He added quickly, however, that no man could say this would come about purely because he, the President, said so.

7. He believes that some system ought to be worked out for making public an accounting of money spent by congressmen on trips abroad. He sees no reason why these records should be kept secret as they are at present.

8. He regards Secretary of Agriculture Ezra T. Benson as one of the finest and most dedicated public servants he has ever known. He believes Benson is thoroughly acquainted with every phase of agriculture and is putting his whole heart into working for the best interests of farmers. This statement was in response to a question whether he regards Benson as a "political millstone."

Mr. Eisenhower, in a matter-of-fact manner, said that no health question was involved in any way in his campaign plans at present. He conceded that he did have to lead a more ordered life than he did before his heart attack, but that this did not affect his campaign operations to any degree.

His announced campaign itinerary does not go beyond a major nationwide speech from Pittsburgh Oct. 9. The President said today he has at least one more definite commitment after Pittsburgh and believes there will be two or three other major speeches.

Mr. Eisenhower was asked why he felt it necessary to expand his campaign plans.

He grinned and said it was simply due to the volume of representation by his good friends, pleas for his appearance which could not be declined.

Benton Hikes Water Rates

BENTON, Ill. (U.P.)—The city of Benton today announced a hike in its water rates to raise $6,000 to pay for cleaning and return of about nine miles of pipe borrowed from the federal government.

The city borrowed the pipe from the Civil Defense Administration for an emergency pipeline to the Big Muddy river during the 1954 drought, when Benton's reservoir went dry. It was loaned on condition that it be returned in its original condition.

Gerdes Construction Co., Salem, was awarded a $6,000 contract for cleaning the pipe and returning it to the civil defense depot at Crab Orchard Lake.

City officials said the water rate increase, from $1.50 for 400 cubic feet to $1.50 for 300 cubic feet, would be effective for 10 to 12 months, in order to raise the money.

A NEW "MAYFLOWER" LAUNCHED—A replica of the "Mayflower" slides into the water during launching ceremonies at Brixham, England. A copy of the original ship that carried the Pilgrim Fathers to the New World 336 years ago this month, the 90-foot vessel is scheduled to sail from Plymouth, England, to Plymouth, Mass., next April. Plans call for the Mayflower to be left in the U. S. as an enduring memorial to Anglo-American unity. (NEA Telephoto)

Man Admits Touching Off Tenement Fire

CHICAGO (U.P.)—Police today prepared charges against a man who confessed touching off a tenement fire in which five persons died because he thought his wife was hiding from him in the building.

Willie Lee Chism, 27, confessed when a lie test indicated he had knowledge of the fire, police said. Chism said he intended to smoke out his estranged wife by throwing a lighted match down a stairwell.

Chism said he had gone to his wife's apartment to seek a reconciliation. When he could not find her, he believed she was hiding beneath the stairs, he said.

The matches touched off waste paper, and the flames curled up the staircase, trapping many upper floor dwellers.

Parents pitched children out the windows to bystanders, and several persons were injured when they leaped to the street from their apartments. Firemen rescued others from the flames.

Chism was suspected when police learned he had quarreled with his wife and had threatened to harm her.

Three women, a man and an 8-year-old boy were killed in the fire.

Air Force Lifts Grounding of B52s

WASHINGTON (U.P.)—The Air Force has lifted a ground order on B52 intercontinental jet bombers, releasing individual planes for flight "after a rigid inspection."

The bombers were grounded after an accident that took five lives Sept. 17.

The Air Force did not say how many of the nine-million-dollar B52s already had passed the test. A spokesman said their electrical fuel and other systems were being given a thorough examination.

The grounding order was announced "as a precautionary measure" on Sept. 19. But the Air Force said crews were kept ready by and the planes were kept ready to fly in case of any emergency.

Librarian Missing

NORMAL, Ill. (U.P.)—Volunteers in airplanes and students today pressed a search for Miss Augusta Gienapp, 51, Illinois State Normal University librarian who has been missing from her home since Sunday.

Relatives and authorities speculated that Miss Gienapp may be suffering from amnesia.

Extremists Harm Civil Rights: Nixon

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (U.P.)—Vice President Richard M. Nixon warned today that extremists on the question of racial segregation do irreparable harm to the great objective of equality which all Americans of goodwill seek.

The vice president for the second straight day spoke out on the touchy civil rights issue. This time he chose a city where school integration has worked successfully despite trouble elsewhere in Kentucky.

Nixon told the University of Louisville student body that "we must never forget that law and judicial decisions alone will not accomplish this objective" of eliminating discrimination.

A law, he said, "is only as good as the will of the parties to keep it" and there must be created in the minds and hearts of people the desire and the will to carry out the letter and the spirit of the law.

He said "this can be accomplished only through intensifying our program of education and persuasion."

The 43-year-old vice president flew into this politically important border state today only one day after his opposition number on the Democratic ticket, Sen. Estes Kefauver (D-Tenn) was here. They both spoke twice to the same two audiences.

Nixon flew in from Kansas City, Kan., early today, almost recovered from his two-day bout with a virus infection and laryngitis.

12 Go On Trial For Polish Riots

POZNAN, Poland (U.P.)—Twelve men went on trial here today in two separate courtrooms for alleged crimes committed during the June 28th riots.

Three of the men, aged 20 or under and with no previous criminal records, are charged with kicking an unarmed police corporal to death. They face death by hanging if convicted.

Nine other men accused of lesser crimes such as burglary and attacks on the police station are being tried in another courtroom of the squat grey concrete courthouse half a mile from the riot scene.

Another 142 persons will be tried later.

Storm Floods Norfolk with Six Feet of Water

NORFOLK, Va. (U.P.)—Hurricane Flossy sideswiped the Virginia coast today, flooding some areas of downtown Norfolk with six feet of water.

Radio Station WOMS said the flood was bad as the deluge of last April when a northeastern storm grounded two freighters and caused the burning of a waterfront pier.

A flood peak of 74 inches of water was reported at 4:15 a. m. EDT.

Flood damage cannot be estimated at this time, but water has blocked off all traffic to downtown areas since 1:30 p. m. Wednesday. Flossy's winds were reported blowing over the city at a steady 35 to 50 miles per hour.

The weather bureau reported the center of the hurricane as halted by a dome of cold high pressure air off the North Carolina coast. Storm winds pushed northward as far as southern New England.

High tides were reported three to five feet above normal from Cape Hatteras, N. C. to southern New Jersey and two to four feet above normal from New Jersey to Provincetown, Mass.

Torrential rains were reported in the northeastern North Carolina area and heavy rains lashed Washington early today. The weather bureau in Boston said it expected rain to begin falling in New England this afternoon.

Teenagers Over-Run Police to See Idol Singer

TUPELO, Miss. (U.P.)—Screaming teenagers overran 100 police and National Guardsmen Wednesday night in a frenzy touched off by a homecoming appearance of rock 'n' roll singer Elvis Presley.

Pandemonium swept over teenagers forming about half a crowd of 12,500 that overflowed specially built bleachers to see Tupelo's most famous former resident.

The youngsters stampeded from the bleachers, forced a cordon of officers back against the bandstand and literally crawled over the uniformed men to reach their idol.

"I can't sing with this going on," Presley wailed into his microphone while the stage teemed with intruders making lunges for his clothing and with officers pulling them away as fast as they arrived. Presley halted his singing to beg his young fans to return to their seats and they obeyed. Soon the audience was relatively quiet and Presley finished his show unscathed.

But during a matinee a few hours earlier a teenaged girl grabbed several buttons off his blue velvet shirt when Presley snatched too close to the edge of the stage.

He said that unless the trend is reversed, 1956 will mark the first year in which the crime total will reach the 2.5 million mark—a new record.

The crime total reached 1,128,350 in the first half of this year, up 162,770 from the same period of 1955. The increase reversed the overall drop in crime recorded last year and was the sharpest half-year rise since the January-June period of 1946, the first postwar year.

THE NONPAREIL—Mrs. Babe Didrikson Zaharias, whose death today ended a three-year fight against cancer, became the world's greatest woman golfer after having established herself as its foremost all-around girl athlete. The Babe came out of Beaumont, Tex., in 1932 to win two Olympic championships, the 80-meter hurdles and the javelin, and to be disqualified after taking another, the high jump. She excelled at everything—basketball, tennis, swimming and diving. She holds girls' mark for throwing a baseball—296 feet.

Babe Didrikson Zaharias Loses 3-Year Fight Against Cancer

Famed Woman Athlete Dies in Galveston Hospital

GALVESTON, Tex. — Babe Didrikson Zaharias, the greatest woman athlete of modern times, died today, the loser in a heroic three-year bout with cancer.

The end came at 6:28 a. m. CST in John Sealy Hospital, nearly six months to the day after the Babe entered it for the last time on March 29.

Dr. George A. W. Currie, hospital administrator, said that the Babe's husband, former wrestler George Zaharias, and two of the Babe's brothers and one of her sisters were at the bedside of the 42-year-old former Olympic champion and the first lady of golf.

The great woman athlete died in her sleep. Her husband cried, his hulking 315-pound frame quivering after the months of waiting.

"It had to come," he sobbed, "and it was merciful . . . quiet and peaceful. She took her last breath peacefully, like, say, she took her first one. She just finished off."

"It's been a long fight and a hard one. The Babe fought so hard, the only way she knew how to fight, not just with her body but with her heart and mind."

George said at 1 a. m. the Babe stirred, blinked and smiled at him and said "George, I ain't gonna die." He said those were the last words she spoke.

"Game's All Over."

"She went to sleep again then," he said. "She was worried about me because she could see I was so worried about her.

"From then on she went downhill. Her breathing became weaker and more labored. Finally, she just stopped breathing. The game's all over now."

Funeral plans were incomplete, but it was learned that Mrs. Zaharias' body would be cremated in Houston and that final rites would be held in Beaumont, where she and her Norwegian parents made their home since the Babe was 3 years old.

The long illness, which the Babe and her doctors once thought they had defeated after an operation for rectal cancer in 1953, caused the Babe to waste away from a husky 140-pound bundle of athletic perfection to well below 100 pounds at the end.

The trim, muscular Babe, born June 26, 1914, in Port Arthur, Tex., excelled in virtually every field of athletics she entered. She first astounded the world in track and field while still a teen-ager in the 1932 Olympics when she won two gold medals for the United States and was deprived of a third because of the "form" she used in clearing the high jump cross bar.

Star In Many Sports
Before that, she had won All-America honors as a basketball player on a Dallas insurance company team that was one of the best known in the country, the Golden Cyclones.

The Babe first took up track and field in 1930 and single-handedly won the women's national AAU in Chicago for her team by winning five events and placing in two others for 30 points.

She was only 17 at the time. Babe began to take golf seriously in 1933 and she worked diligently to perfect her game just as she had her track and field form.

It took her two years to develop herself into a champion, but from 1935 until finally driven from the fairways by cancer, she had no peer among the women golfers of the world.

She won 82 tournaments from 1935 to 1953, including all the big ones and the Women's National Open three times. She became the first American to win the British Women's Amateur championship.

Harrisburg Plays Eldorado Friday In Area's Oldest Grid Rivalry

Eagles are Solid Favorite to Win At Taylor Field

Harrisburg vs. Eldorado, the oldest high school football rivalry in southern Illinois, is the menu for Taylor Field Friday night with Eldorado a solid favorite to win for the first time in a number of years. Kickoff time for this non-conference game is 7:30.

This usually is a contest in which the season's past performances are disregarded, but most of the fans in the county are predicting the Eagles of Eldorado will win.

Eldorado holds comfortable wins over Anna-Jonesboro and McLeansboro for the year while Harrisburg has been beaten by both Murphysboro and Marion, not showing much of a running attack and letting speedy backs of the opposition get away from them.

The rivalry started back in 1916 and has continued throughout the years. During the span Harrisburg has won 28 games, Eldorado 10 and there have been three ties. Since 1945 Harrisburg has won seven and Eldorado four.

Previous Scores
Last year, with Tony Beal and Freddie McKenzie going over for touchdowns, Harrisburg won, 13 to 7. Acie Gwaltney scored the lone touchdown for Eldorado. The year before, at Taylor Field, Eldorado won, 19 to 13.

Other scores back to 1945: 1953—Harrisburg 20, Eldorado 7; 1952—Eldorado 13, Harrisburg 6; 1951—Harrisburg 19, Eldorado 8; 1950—Harrisburg 20, Eldorado 0; 1949—Harrisburg 7, Eldorado 0; 1948—Harrisburg 20, Eldorado 0; 1947—Harrisburg 33, Eldorado 0; 1946—Eldorado 7, Harrisburg 6; 1945—Eldorado 13, Harrisburg 7.

Harrisburg Coach Lawrence Caluffetti probably will start Bill Yates and Bud Logan at ends, Ray Hasset and Ronnie Vick at tackles, Gary Aldridge and Lou Williams at guards, Allen Buchanan at center, Jim Cummins at quarterback, Don Biggs and Trevor Whiteside or Mickey Stone at halfbacks and John Ziegler at fullback. Players who undoubtedly will see lots of action are Eddie Price, fullback; Bob Clark, quarterback; and Ronnie Maynard, Bob Simpson and Don Pickford, linemen. There are others, too, who probably will get into the contest.

Eldorado Starters

Starters for the Al Adams-coached Eldorado Eagles will probably be Don Kingery and Leonard Willis at ends, Richard Overton and Bernard Goodley at tackles, Web Mosby and Jack Mitchell guards, Fred Pool at center, Carl Justice quarterback, Lester Feuguay and Don Gwaltney halfbacks and Gary Phelps fullback.

Web Mosby and Marty Feuguay are co-captains of the Eagles, but Feuguay will miss the game due to a collar bone fracture suffered in practice Tuesday. It has been described as a hairline fracture and Feuguay may see action within the next two or three weeks, but definitely will not play tomorrow.

Others who are expected to get into play are Gordon Monroe, Allen Corbin and Mike McMahon, linemen, and Ben Dempsey and Gary Reasons, backs, along with others.

Other Games

Another feature on the Illinois prep football card pits resurgent Marion against Benton in the South Seven Conference. Marion whacked Harrisburg last week, while Benton held Centralia, a favorite for the title, to a tie.

Also in southern Illinois, always powerful Murphysboro goes after its third straight victory against Du Quoin, Centralia takes on Herrin, Salem, a favorite in the North Egypt Conference race, meets Flora, and West Frankfort is at Mount Vernon.

Name SMU Pilot Coach of Week

DALLAS, Tex. — He spent three cents to get his job, the price of a postage stamp for his unsolicited application which he didn't even bother to send air mail.

"I think I would make you a pretty good coach," he said, adding casually he had heard there was a vacancy.

They liked his simplicity and hired him when they checked up and found that "the guy never tells anything, but the honest-to-gosh corn-fed Kansas truth."

He's the United Press coach of the week, Chalmers Edison Woodward of the green but mean Southern Methodist Mustangs, who handed Notre Dame its first opening game defeat in 22 years.

Woodward stuck to his reputation for telling the truth when he said before the season began that "we can beat Notre Dame."

Although SMU was rated as "weak" and probably a last place team in the Southwest Conference because of heavy graduation losses, Woodward bluntly believes that "we're good enough to finish third or fourth."

He feels that way despite the fact he has only 11 letter men on the squad.

Haney Confident Braves Will Win Flag by Sunday; Dodgers Drop Game Behind in Race

By United Press

Fred Haney says the Braves will clinch by Sunday, Walt Alston says the Dodgers will battle their way into a playoff and Casey Stengel says "c'mon anybody," because his Yankees are restless and eager to get the World Series started.

All clubs in the majors had an off-day today and no one was enjoying it more than Haney, whose Braves boast a full game lead with only three left to play.

"We're going to win it by Sunday," beamed the little Milwaukee skipper. "We're not going to need any playoff."

It was Haney's first real show of confidence in two weeks and the big factor behind that optimism was Philadelphia's 7-3 victory over Brooklyn at Ebbets Field Wednesday. Even with the setback, though, there was no all-out attitude by Alston.

"We'll win three from the Pirates, the Braves will lose one to the Cards and the season will open here all over again next Monday," Alston declared.

Snider Homers Twice

Robin Roberts, who racked up his 19th victory, was the one who did the Dodgers dirt Wednesday even though he was tagged for a pair of homers by Duke Snider. Roberts limited Brooklyn to five hits and the Phils jumped in front to stay when a second-inning error by left-fielder Sandy Amoroso paved the way for three runs off loser Don Newcombe.

When the shooting resumes Thursday, Haney will send either Bob Buhl (18-8) or Lew Burdette (18-10) against Tom Poholsky (9-14) of the Cardinals in St. Louis. Haney appeared to be leaning toward Buhl, especially since Burdette hasn't won a game since Sept. 3.

Roger Craig (12-11) already has been named as Alston's choice against Bob Friend (17-6) of the Pirates. Friend defeated the Dodgers, 6-5, in a game that knocked the Brooks out of first place last Monday but Alston insisted, "he

Jackson Wins Disputed Decision Over Bob Baker

PITTSBURGH — Tommy (Hurricane) Jackson, the rock-and-roll flier from Far Rockaway, N. Y., may be the 1957 heavyweight challenger despite the dispute over his repeat victory against big Bob Baker Wednesday night.

Before promoter Jim Norris flew to New York this morning, he said, "Jackson is very much in the picture as a prospective challenger next year."

The lanky, 25-year-old "Hurricane" won a split 12-round decision over Baker of Pittsburgh, before 12,641 at chilly Forbes Field in their return bout Wednesday night.

But a poll of 13 ringside writers favored Baker, 9-4; many of the fans were thunder struck, and William (Dusty) Bettor, Baker's manager, declared, "I'm stunned. Bob won all by himself. No, I won't make any official protest. But I'm demanding another fight with Jackson."

It was a bruising fight—much better than their first one at Madison Square Garden last Feb. 3, when Jackson won a majority vote, in which two ring officials favored him but the other called it a draw.

Wednesday night Referee Ernie Sesto had Baker ahead on a rounds basis, 7-4-1. But Judge Al Grayber favored Jackson, 6-4-2, and Judge George Lupinacci also favored the Hurricane, 8-4. The United Press had Baker in front 7-5.

Jackson apparently won with his stronger finish. Each of the two judges gave him the last three rounds. However the referee gave each of those sessions to Baker.

THE SECRET OF HIDDEN TREASURES

The CLUE—COLUMBIA AGRICULTURAL LIMESTONE—It has hidden treasures which are not recognized by all. COLUMBIA AGRICULTURAL LIMESTONE not only sweetens soil, adds calcium, but makes it possible to raise legumes which add tilt to the soil.

According to the results from the University of Illinois Brownstown Experimental Field, this is clearly demonstrated.

On the area of the field, which has been limed since 1940, and where clovers were plowed under, the corn yields, with LIMESTONE, potash, phosphate and nitrogen, was 97 bushels per acre.

LIMESTONE and LEGUMES are the farmer's greatest guarantee against crop failures, especially in bad years. Don't forget to satisfy your LIMESTONE REQUIREMENTS FIRST. Let:

Ewell Harris, Galatia, Illinois
Ralph Carpenter, Eldorado, Illinois

supply COLUMBIA 2200 LIMESTONE, which will give you hidden treasure in your soil.

Illinois, Indiana Working on Plans to Take Over Bridges

WASHINGTON — Gov. George N. Craig of Indiana said today his state and Illinois are working on plans to take over two Wabash River toll bridges and operate them jointly on a toll-free basis.

Craig said he and Gov. William G. Stratton of Illinois will establish within the next 10 days a commission of engineers and financiers to work out arrangements.

The bridges, both privately owned, are at New Harmony, Ind., and at Hutsonville, Ill.

Most States Joining Fight to Get Bigger Slice of Economic Melon

Editor's Note: One of the new aspects of American economy is the battle among sections of the country for new industry financed directly by government. The following dispatch, first of a series of three, is based on a survey of U. P. bureaus across the country.

By EVERETT R. IRWIN
United Press Staff Correspondent
CHICAGO — Every state in the nation with the exception of two is in the business of bringing new businesses and industries within its borders.

They are scrapping for bigger and better slices of an economic melon that has been swelling for 15 years—and shows every promise of getting even bigger.

A United Press survey shows that only Texas and California spend no state funds for such promotional purpose. They leave the job to chambers of commerce, private development groups or local governments.

But the other 46 are openly competing with one another. Arkansas, Illinois, Wisconsin, Florida, Idaho and Nevada have established industrial agencies within the last 18 months.

Big Prize
The size of the prize they are after is shown by the Department of Commerce survey of current business. It reported that in the first six months of this year more than $16,600,000,000 was spent on new plants, plant expansion and equipment in all industries.

A department official said that despite this summer's steel strike it appears 1956 will surpass the record industrial expansion year of 1953. That year plant and equipment expenditures totaled $28,300,000,000.

All around the country, yawning excavations and rising walls of brick and mortar testify to the industrial boom.

Marquardt Aviation Co. broke ground in July for a five-million-dollar plus Ramjet engine plant near Ogden, Utah.

Chrysler Motor Co. is building an 85-million-dollar plant near Akron, Ohio, and Olin Mathieson Corp. is constructing a 94-million-dollar aluminum plant in south eastern Ohio.

Reynolds Metal has a 145-million dollar expansion near Muscle Shoals on the Tennessee River in Alabama.

American Oil Company's 35-million-dollar refinery is scheduled to go into operation next winter near Yorktown, Va.

Omaha, Neb., captured a new Western Electric plant which will cost 50-million-dollars and employ more than 4,000 workers.

Acme Steel Co. recently announced plans to build steel-making facilities near Chicago's new world port.

A new tractor plant for Aurora, Ill.; an auto parts plant at Dyersburg, Tenn.; an aircraft factory at St. Petersburg, Fla.

New factories mean more jobs. More jobs mean greater tax receipts to build highways and schools, more money in consumers' pocketbooks. The swelling consumer market creates a demand for more industries.

So far it's a merry-go-round. And states like Arizona, Nevada and Washington, which once stood aloof from smokestacks and machines, are climbing aboard.
